THE muffin, wafers and brown bread batters will be our lesson today; muffins should have a fine grain, and a soft spongy texture, if they are to be successful. The composition, of the batter, and the time for baking are the important features of this form of bread.

Egg Muffins
Beat two cups of whole-wheat flour through the colander, and return to the flour the bran that remains in the colander after sifting the flour. Now place in a mixing bowl
One-half cup of sugar,
Five tablespoons of butter,
Yolks of three eggs.
Cream the sugar, yolks of eggs and butter, until very light and creamy, then add
The prepared flour and one and one-half cups of milk,
Four level teaspoons of baking powder,
One teaspoon of salt.
Beat hard for three minutes, then cut and fold into the prepared batter, the stiffly beaten whites of the three eggs, turn in well-greased muffin pans, fill; the muffin pans about two-thirds full; bake in hot oven for twenty-five minutes.

Quick Muffins
Place in mixing bowl
Four tablespoons of sugar,
Four tablespoons of shortening,
One egg,
Five cups of flour,
Five teaspoons of baking powder,
One teaspoon of salt,
One and one-quarter cups of milk.
Beat together for five minutes, then turn in well-greased muffin pans and bake in hot oven twenty-five minutes.

English Muffins
Place in mixing bowl
One-half cup of sugar,
Two eggs,
One and one-half cups of milk,
Soaked and cooked to 80 degrees Fahrenheit,
One-half teaspoon of salt.
One-crumble in one compressed yeast cake, and stir until the mixture is well blended, then beat with the egg beater for five minutes; remove the egg beater, and add
Five cups of flour,
And beat flour in the mixture with spoon, when well mixed, place bowl in place free from drafts, and cover with clean cloth; let rise for two and one-half hours, then add
One-quarter cup of melted butter,
and one-half cup more of flour,
and beat well for five minutes; now fill and beat well-greased muffin rings and stand on table. Cover with cloth and let rise twenty-five minutes, or until the mixture is nearly to the top of the rings. Bake in hot oven twenty-five minutes.

Do not fill rings over half full of the batter.
These muffins are split and toasted and served with butter, and served with individual pots of jam or marmalade in Buckingham Palace, England.
The rings used are the old-fashioned deep muffin rings about the size of the lid of a one-pound can of baking powder. The rings are greased well and placed on a well-greased baking sheet. Deep muffin or popovers will do if you do not care to purchase the rings.

Fairhill Muffins
Place in mixing bowl
Five tablespoons of sugar,
Two eggs,
Four tablespoons of butter, or other shortening,
Clean well and add
Two and one-quarter cups of flour,
One teaspoon of salt,
Two level tablespoons of baking powder,
One and one-quarter cups of milk.
Beat in one-cup butter and bake in well-greased muffin pans in hot oven for twenty minutes.

Wafers
A special iron, known as the wafer iron, is necessary for the baking of the wafer. This iron is similar in construction to the well known waffle iron, but is perfectly flat, and the wafer, when closed it will make and bake a thin wafer.
Secure iron and wash well in plenty of soapy water, and with boiling water and place the sun to dry. When ready to use heat slowly, and just before pouring in the batter, rub with a greased pad, similar to one used on the griddle. There must be no excess fat floating around or the wafer will be a failure.

The Batter
Place in mixing bowl
One-quarter cup of sugar,
Yolks of four eggs,
Three tablespoons of butter,
Cream well until light and fluffy, now add
Three-quarters cup of flour,
One-half cup of rice flour,
Two tablespoons of cornstarch,
One and one-quarter cups of milk.
Beat hard with wire whip or flat wire spoon, and the batter is ready to bake. To bake place in buttered and oiled of the prepared batter in the center of the prepared and heated iron, and close. Reverse the iron, as in baking waffles, and as soon as the wafer is a delicate brown, remove to cloth, and roll at once, either into a cornucopia or scroll. If you desire to have the wafers covered with either chocolate or nuts, it may be done as follows:

To Chocolate-coat the Wafers
Melt sweet chocolate in small bowl and add
One teaspoon of butter to one-quarter pound of the sweet chocolate.
When in liquid, take wafer in the hand and spread lightly with the chocolate, using a spatula. If you desire the chocolate nut covering, after you cover the wafer with the chocolate, then sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Water icing may be used when a white icing is desired. Place two wafers together with a thick wafer icing, filling the cover with first chocolate, then finely chopped nuts.
For variety, finely chopped pineapple may be mixed with the nuts. Also raisins, candied cherries or ginger.

Boston Brown Bread
This is a batter bread, and one that if properly made, makes a splendid variety of the bread foods for every meal of the entire day.
Place in mixing bowl
One cup of rye flour,
One cup of whole wheat flour,
One teaspoon of salt,
Three level tablespoons of baking powder,
Three-quarters cup of molasses,
Two cups of sour milk.
Beat well to mix and turn in well-greased brown bread mold, filling the mold about two-thirds full; close mold, and steam for one and one-half hours. Open mold and place in warm oven with the door open for one-half hour to dry the depth of the mold. In the bath used for steaming the bread.
One cup of raisins or finely chopped nuts may be added for variety.

AMERICAN PUBLIC AFFAIRS

"Is it proper to send a gift some weeks after a wedding?" asks "E. V." who adds: "The invitation was forwarded to my temporary address in Canada and arrived too late for my acquaintance."
Although the conventional thing is to send gifts before the wedding, friends of the bride or bridegroom, or both, who happen to have been absent at the date of the all-important event may send gifts a few weeks or even a few months after the wedding day. The belated "regret" for non-attendance should be enclosed in a letter of explanation. It is not necessary to await returning to the States before purchasing a present. A gift brought from Canada and forwarded from a Canadian shipping point will be in itself an indication of immediate good will on the part of the distant friend. If the article selected is characteristically Canadian, all the better, as it is not so likely to be one of many duplicates.

Baby Won't Grow Much Now, Says Dr. Evans

The chief business of a child is to grow and learn things.
At these two trades the young one works harder and succeeds better than the adult does with his job.
But, at that, growth is not uniform at all seasons of the year.
I have always said in this column that babies, and children generally, will not grow much, and should not be expected to grow much during hot weather.

Every mother should have a growth schedule for her child, and she should try to see that the time card is lived up to at other seasons of the year except, possibly, the hot season.
If she tries to feed her baby enough to keep up this schedule in hot weather she will make him sick.
The mother of older children will do well to disregard the schedule in hot weather.

Two or three recent reports are only partially confirmatory of this opinion. Prof. W. T. Porter, of Harvard University, studied the growth records of several thousand Boston school children, found that the season of maximum growth was from September to January. The season of smallest gain was from February to June.
Since the schools are not in session in summer, he had no extended observations on hot weather gains.
In New York City, Gebhart studied the growth curves of 600 children.
He found that the period of maximum gain began early in August and, that between that and the end of the year the children made two-thirds of the entire year's gain.
In the more than seven months between January and August 15, the average gain was only half as much as during the four and a half months of the late summer, fall, and early winter.

While these observations are not wholly nonfurnishing of advice, nevertheless, they do not overturn it. Therefore, again . . . Do not try to make your baby, or even your older children, gain much weight this summer.

Selecting Calmness
Calmness is a characteristic which may be regarded from several different angles. To some extent it is a natural characteristic; and again it is in greater or less degree the logical outgrowth of other conditions.
The naturally calm or placid temperament is indicated by the rounded handwriting couples, in most cases, when the attribute is pronounced, by vertical or backward writing.
Calmness, however, is often in large measure the result of self-restraint, and in such cases you will note that the subject writes a small hand.
There is also a kind of calmness and assurance which comes from a feeling of self-reliance, the kind of calmness which marks the naturally capable person.

in this case you will find that the person in question writes a vertical, angular hand.
And again you have the kind of calmness which is the result of nothing but a lazy disposition, and a mentality that is not geared to high speed. In such cases as these you will find that one of the signs of that calmness is the tendency of the person to dot the letter "i" to the left.

She Always Wears Cantilevers

She wrote: "I find that I must turn back to the Pacific Coast instead of getting to New York and to the Cantilever shop there in a few days, as I had intended doing. This means that I must do my shoe shopping by mail, because my time is so limited. But you have my size in your files. Please look it up and send me a pair 2-strap black pumps—Cuban heel.
I pair black oxford ties—low heel.
Enclosed is my check to cover cost."

"I couldn't think of wearing any shoes but Cantilevers in my ever-on-the-go selling job. They relieve the strain and help me. Besides, I must be well shod, for good-looking feet are a business asset. So please rush my order on to catch me at this hotel by July 1st."
Here is a letter from a business woman who has learned the comfort of wearing the

Cantilever Shoe
For Men and Women
for her strenuous traveling life. Note that she demands a good-looking as well as a comfortable shoe.
Cantilever Shoes meet both of these requirements. The arch is made entirely of leather. It does not have a stiff piece of steel—such as is concealed in the arch of ordinary shoes—which prevents the natural arching of your foot. The snug-fitting instep of Cantilevers gives just the right support without binding anywhere. The neatly rounded toe is fashionable, yet roomy. The low or medium heel makes possible that easy, swinging walk which characterizes the ideal woman and is now so much the vogue.
